

Well-behaved women
seldom make history

Women With Goals

Women With Goals is an event series designed to provoke guided conversations, experience sharing, and expert advice regarding personal finance. Our goal is to build a community of women who will support each other long after the meeting series has come to an end.

I understand that personal finances can be stressful, keep you awake at night, and at the very least – be a rather uncomfortable topic. I'd like to make it a little less so. Talking about and gaining insight and understanding about something really can make it much less intimidating. I'm inviting you to be a part of conversations with other women – your peers – with open, safe and honest experience sharing and guidance.

Let's share what we do to quiet our minds. Let's encourage one another to take charge and address these important, but difficult topics. My goal is to empower women with knowledge in an effort to make choices that maintain balance and keep us on track – to create comfort and confidence in our lives, so we can focus on what's really important.
